

GEOFFREY C. MURRAY, PH.D.
Partner
Oliver Wyman

Dr. Geoff Murray is a Partner with Oliver Wyman, a leading global management consulting firm best known for its work in aviation and financial services. From 2014 through 2019 he served as Oliver Wyman’s aerospace sector leader and led projects supporting Boards of Directors and senior leaders at OEMs, suppliers, financial sponsors and operators.

Dr. Murray is the principal author of Oliver Wyman’s pilot supply analysis where he leveraged the firm’s proprietary global fleet forecast and surveyed flight operations leaders across the globe. His work on the topic has been featured on CNBC, NPR’s All Things Considered, The Wall Street Journal, CNN, NBC News, and all major aviation trade publications.

Dr. Murray is an alumnus of the engineering programs at Northwestern University (Ph.D.) and Embry-Riddle (B.S.) He began his career at McDonnell Douglas (now Boeing) where he was an original member of the U.S. Navy T-45A Goshawk experimental flight test team. He is a current and active aircraft owner, airline pilot and flight instructor with over 5,000 hours of flight time.